

Pahalgam Attack in Kashmir and the India-Pakistan “war”

May 10, 2025

So here we go again... first Russia-Ukraine, then Israel-Palestine, and now ladies and gentlemen, welcome (back) to India-Pakistan, another Pavlov-dog-inspired project that has gotten more than a billion people agitated. It looks like Israel had a few spare missiles to get rid of – and they decided to sell them to India, and probably to Pakistan as well. Even if those missiles exist only on paper, some money exchanged hands somewhere, for sure. But let's back up a bit, shall we? It all started with Pahalgam.

The “attack” happened in Pahalgam / Baisaran Valley, in Kashmir. Incidentally, Kashmir is also considered to be the Switzerland of India. 26 tourists were killed, all male and non-Muslim (2+6 = 8, for those who are keeping count). It was set up as a flash point by Nehru, our old friend. There has been an upsurge of tourism to Kashmir in last couple of years, and this attack on Apr 22nd, 2025 has frightened tourists, and kept them away from this scenic spot.

The most visible victim was Lieutenant Vinay Narwal, Indian Navy Officer, who died on his honeymoon, a few days after his marriage. His wife Himanshi is in this video, during the attack, or immediately after. She was mentioned as a witness, but it is clear she is a “victim”.

If you are from India, there is a cultural factor that you may recognize: the wife is uncharacteristically detached. An Indian newlywed wife would not be so enthused about explaining everything to a stranger – she would not leave the side of the husband and would be in no shape to speak. Not as obvious as fake “victims” in the US who laugh on camera such as in the so-called school shootings, but scaled to this culture, it is the same thing.

In events like these, the initial videos give enough indication what really happened. But soon thereafter the longer videos are scrubbed, replaced by smaller segments, spliced with other videos. Loud music is added for effect if people shot are criminals. But in this case of a Navy Lieutenant, patriotic music is added.

The first time I noticed was in the case of gangsters Atiq Ahmad and his brother Ashraf. Atiq Ahmad's son was killed in April 2023 in a “police encounter” in Uttar Pradesh. And a week later

Atiq Ahmad and Ashraf were killed while in police custody. They were being taken for a medical checkup, and were killed by three guys posing as journalists.

I saw the video of the shooting. The way the guys were raising the gun, running, and firing it looked like an imitation of a gunfight by children. Unfortunately I failed to bookmark the video link, so you have to take my word for it. I couldn't locate the video, but I saw many sliced and spliced videos with loud music, hiding the fact that the shooting was a ridiculous fake. Ajay Bisht aka Yogi Adityanath, the Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, and his tough on crime image, taking on the Mafia, fearless and fake.

"No Mafia Can...": Yogi Adityanath's Big Remark After Atiq Ahmed's Murder

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's remarks come in the aftermath of the shocking murders of Atiq Ahmed and brother Ashraf Saturday night

Look at the smile on that smug mug.

We see a similar attempt to fudge and mislead in the Kashmir incident. Here's a video of the guy on the ground with the lady next to him. The guy is alive, and just when he starts to move his hands and feet, the video is truncated, and another one spliced in. Nice try though. It is so bad, the color is still fresh in his cheeks, his lady looks like she just got up from a nap, the whole shoot could have been done at a playground... sheesh.

The photos show her husband next to her, no blood after being shot. And other videos, including the very first one at top of this article show her leaving her husband's side to give enough details on camera, so that we know what happened.

When "terrorists" shoot, a victim has to provide as much details on camera, right? You have to talk and talk, completely ignoring the supposedly-loved one, who can expire without disturbance. The camera man also has an obligation to collect as many details as possible, forget the guy shot and dying (no bleeding of course, that would be too much work).

A few photos have dramatized the scene adding blood, blurring the head, also fake. Very soon they'll scrub these truncated videos too. The next day, Apr 23rd, the dead guy (Vinay Narwal) is in a box. After a bit of crying and hugging, the box is taken away.

And what a performance! It would make a crocodile cry with jealousy. The body language of the family is WAY off – they all merely seem disappointed that she didn't pass an exam or something.

And that soldier to the right seems to be saying to the camera man “Dude, you're getting this, right? You'd better not mess this up, or else...”

We also have another video, the guy's cremation. We see a small pyre lit, the bigger one is unlit. There's a different video where the bigger pyre is lit, I haven't added it here. They would have faked the cremation anyway.

There is another lady from Andhra Pradesh. She says they were asked to lie down, face to the ground. Someone kept asking "Hindu or Muslim" repeatedly, fired a shot, and her husband bled profusely and died. Someone can take a look at this video, see if she is being truthful. It is definitely strange that this lady is ready for the media so soon after a personal tragedy. At least she says husband bled after being shot, unlike the photographic evidence in Vinay Narwal's case.

But it looks like she's acting too... though she is no match for the acting skills of the daughter, who is trying really hard to shed tears, but no cigar. And no face on the body either. For someone familiar with an Indian wake, the body language of everyone seems like they are tense about some celebrity visiting, and it has nothing to do with death.

So were some people really killed for this staged event? Unlikely.

Even Bollywood has been subdued in expressing their outrage. Remember Mumbai 2008 attacks or 26/11 attacks (yep, another 26, gotta make the mental markers easy-peasy), also called India's 9/11, where 166 people "died". Bollywood carried out this "attack", totally fake. The clue - being called as India's 9/11 to go with the original fakes of Sept 11, 2001. The only terrorist to be captured alive Ajmal Kasab, an actor wannabe. His name is fake, Kasab, meaning butcher. How very convenient. They even tip their hand, claiming that he was shooting as if he was in a video game. Excuse me? So you are telling me the railway official in a busy train station is a Call of Duty champion in his spare time to recognize the “video game shooting style”? What a bad joke. Kasab never spent a day in jail, anyone (other than Bollywood and associated entities who ran this script) who claims they saw him is lying. He was never hanged, might have got a decent payout for his acting.

Bollywood has been enthusiastic about 26/11 anniversaries, since they supplied the actors, the fake shooting, fake blood, fake dead, and fake terrorists.

Bollywood has shown a lack of enthusiasm about the attack in Pahalgam. Why?

It is time now to go to our trusted sources. The first is Prime Minister Modi. India is apparently ready for war, with Modi taking an aggressive stance. The Indus Water Treaty has been suspended. But instead of starving Pakistan of water, India apparently flooded Jhelum. A Modi masterstroke!

Indian PM Modi Vows to Retaliate Against Pakistan in Fiery Speech | Vantage with Palki Sharma | N18G

Surely Modi is different, he's a Hindu, and he's from a poor, backward-caste tea-seller family. He wouldn't do such a thing or play along with a fake. But Modi's main talent is acting, that's what Wikipedia says. "He preferred playing larger-than-life characters in theatrical productions". Could Modi be playing a "larger-than-life" character in the Pahalgam "theatrical production"? In his Prime Ministership? In his whole life? Aah, Wikipedia, you are so prescient.

The next one is Jagadish Vasudev aka Sadhguru. He now wants to erase Mughal history in India. He favors an aggressive approach to Pakistan. How original. To be fair, his long-term solution is to eliminate terrorism by bringing in progress. You know, the kind of progress you get by buddying up with Klaus Schwab and the World Economic Forum.

This guy's biggest prediction is the mental-health pandemic. Obviously, as we already saw this guy and his antics in pushing the vax during the “pandemic”. What better way to trigger a mental-health pandemic than to fake terrorist attacks, divide society on religious lines, and fool people.

The third one is Annamalai, previously BJP Chief of Tamil Nadu, currently reassigned. Another guy who pops out like a jack-in-the-box to play the terrorism card whenever he can. He's our third clue the event is faked.

Poor guy looks like he has a headache. The people surrounding him don't seem to believe him either. They have been taking lessons from Kevin Bacon.

The fourth one is Sai Deepak, proud Hindu, engineer-turned-lawyer, who has taken on current Islamic terrorism, and like Sadhguru keeps highlighting the horrors of Muslim invasions, and the Mughal past. That link will show you that even Redditors are seeing through this guy.

The last one is Palki Sharma, India's most famous journalist. She was in Israel covering the war with Hamas, at one point even hiding behind a median when a bomb went off. Or more likely when she was given cues to cower behind a median. Another actor wannabe and talking-head-in-chief. She's a precursor to AI-drone news readers, give her any topic, she will drone on, in a monotone, acting as if she is the greatest expert. The war in Israel we know is fake, Palki Sharma would know it is fake, since she went to Israel to cover this "war".

That is Palki on the right. See how our “moving man” now has a black strip on his eyes? Probably to prevent you from seeing him wink at his girl.

So these are the people we have learned to trust, and they never fail to sell us fakes.

We also hear that the houses of nine of the local "terrorists" who cooperated with the Pakistani counterparts to carry this "attack" were razed. How does this work? If one can go after the family of a "criminal", why stop there? How about the terrorist's other extended relatives, their relatives, perhaps their friends too. How about the school, the college the terrorist attended? The offices they worked? Raze them all. Half the country would be razed to the ground, and the people who run the "terrorism" script can profit in reconstruction. A WWE script is better in comparison.

Are we supposed to believe there is no law for the law enforcement agencies, for the courts. Buildings can be razed because someone thought it belonged to a "terrorist"? The last I heard was that even the lowest of the low criminal wouldn't attack his enemy's family. So now the most morally bankrupt criminal is embarrassed by the hallowed democratic institutions of the greatest democracy the world has ever known. Can we fall any further?

Of course both the terrorist attacks and the razing of the houses of terrorists are fake. Why the fake? To keep people busy fighting each other over artificial differences. How can one distinguish a Hindu, a Muslim or a Christian? There is nothing in one's appearance to indicate their religion. That makes everyone insecure.

Most people don't even care about this fake. Somehow social rift has been limited even with heavy promotion of terrorism project through fakes. Will social harmony last? Will it break? Will people fight each other on real or imagined threats, or imagined insults from centuries ago? Will people realize the real gainers from conflict are the rich families?

War is a pretense. (See Lestrade's coverage of World Wars, specifically the Pacific Theater). The man during this crisis is Modi. How will real wealth be rearranged once this fake runs its course? Pakistanis will rally behind their leaders too, and lose whatever little they have, while the rich will get richer.

The movement of armed forces to Pakistani border, and having the navy and air-force on alert is just posturing. And then straight from the WWE, the Orange Man himself, came, saw, and stomped his foot! And lo! There is a ceasefire!

That's all folks.
